HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. B. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
Here [illegible] to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs [illegible] horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—A congress of the National Labor Union will be held in this city on Monday. Already the President and officials are here, and many delegates have arrived. A large section of valuable land has been selected on the Republican river forty miles southeast of Fort Kearney, where three hundred families soon intend settling.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Harvard and Oxford crews were out to-day, both showing good pace and strong pulling. The afternoon of August 25th has been finally adopted as the time of the race. It has been stated that the Harvard crew shall become posted as follows: Fay, bow; Loring, stroke; Lyman and Simmons.

The American yacht Sappho has left Queenstown for Cowes. When about to start she fired a Royal salute, which was answered by the guardship and yachts of the Royal Cork Yacht Club. During the stay of the Sappho her owners and guests were entertained in the most enthusiastic and hospitable manner.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The under foreign Secretary Thiele has sent a note to Baron De Meather, Prussian Minister in Austria, to communicate it to Baron Von Beust. It contains a refutation of his allegations that the treaty of Prussia with the South German States disturbes the treaty of Prague, and the relations between Austria and Prussia; and, he desires Von Beust to publish the proofs of his assertions.

LISBON, Aug. 14.—The mail steamer from Rio brings dates to July 23d.

The war news is quite important. A provisional government for Paraguay had been definitely organized at Ascunsion. The Paraguayans had taken Proclule and captured a Brazilian ship at anchor there. Lopez's army was secured in intrenchments and had a large force of reserves.

The Brazilian province of Matto Grasso had been exempted from import and export duties for two years.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 14.—The Vizier's letter to Ismael Pasha states circumstantially the grievances of the Sublime Porte. It refers to certain affairs and the journey through Europe, the oppressive administration of Egypt, and demands a determination to insist strictly on the terms of 1841.

VIENNA, Aug. 14.—The Presse says business relations between the Turkish and Lombardy railroad companies have been entirely broken off.

Baron Von Beust in a speech to the Reichsrath yesterday defended the budget. He said its maintenance will be easier if the defensive forces of Austria are not diminished.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 14.—The insurrection in the Kinghize country has been entirely suppressed.

OCEAN STEAMER NAVIGATION.—Of the eighty-four steamers which ply between America and Europe, but five are owned by American companies. The European lines are well patronized and prosperous, and are fast increasing the number of their steamers, but American capitalists hesitate to compete with their transatlantic brethren. Shortly before the war an American line (the Collins) was plying between this port and Liverpool. The company made good profits, but owing to extravagant management, it became bankrupt, and its vessels passed into other hands. Commodore Vanderbilt also made profits from his line, till, from patriotic motives, he gave his best steamer to his country, and sold the others. Roger's is the only American line at present running between New York and Europe. It numbers five steamers. The Cunard is the oldest English line. It numbers fourteen first-class steamers. It is said to be the best passenger line, but it is not so successful as the Inman, which does a very prosperous freight business. The Cunard and Inman are both fast lines, and are patronized by the best class. The Williams & Guion Line may be said to be half American, being carried on almost entirely by American capital. Mr. Guion, who manages the business of the firm on this side, is an American by birth. The Guion steamers make the trip in from ten to eleven days, and are regarded as both safe and comfortable. The Hamburgh American Packet Company is a first-class German line. It has ten steamers, and is perhaps superior to the Cunard in the accommodation it affords to cabin passengers. The North German Lloyd, whose steamers ply between New York and Bremen, via Southampton, is not surpassed in accommodation, safety and speed. The Anchor Line has suffered two misfortunes lately in losing the fine steamer Hibernia last October, and an extra ship, the old United Kingdom, which has been due at Glasgow since the middle of May. It is, nevertheless, still a favorite with the traveling public. The General Transatlantic Co's Line, running between New York and Havre, calling at Brest, is a favorite with many passengers. The line has five steamers, and offers to intending travelers the advantage of not carrying steerage passengers. The National Line was started about eight years ago, and it enjoys the questionable honor of having had the largest number of emigrants brought over in one of its steamers (the Erin) that ever came in a single vessel. There are two or three other lines of lesser importance.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Stockton, California, paper says that the Chicago merchants who lately visited the former city were "stunned" by the evidences of business enterprise in Stockton.

A Colored Man's Philosophy.

At an educational convention recently held in Louisville, Kentucky, P. H. Clark, a colored man of Cincinnati, was present and delivered an address which contained more sober and cogent truth than it has been the privilege of Kentuckians to hear for the last ten years. After declaring that "in numbers and in intelligent energy the white man stands at the head of all the races which have found a home in America," and asserting that "to the white man is given the task of building the edifice of American nationality," he proceeded in the following eloquent and forcible manner to state some of the great duties which were thus laid upon the white race:

> The white man has the power to work his will with the people and institutions of this continent, and for the proper exercise of this tremendous power he must answer at the tribunal of posterity and at the bar of God. Leaving out for the present a consideration of the proper treatment of the Indian, the Chinaman, only stopping to say that enlightenment and justice are the appliances needed in their case, I shall proceed to ask: What shall be done with the negro? What will you do with us? Here we are, five millions strong. Not just coming, as the Chinese are, but here now and firmly seated. Here now as we have been for centuries. Here now as we will be for centuries. Not foolishly fighting the rising tide of civilization, and perishing before it as the Indian does, but assimilating ourselves to it, and increasing in numbers. We live and grow in spite of ignorance. Not even the doctors of the census tables, "and they are worse than the cholera," can kill us.
> We are told scornfully that it is not meet to take the children's bread and give it to the dogs, but even from the crumbs which fall from the great table, where the sons and daughters of America are fed, we gather life and strength. We are a part of the American people. When Americans mourn we mourn. When Americans rejoice we rejoice. We are an existing fact, we can't be ciphered out of the way. The American statesman or economist who forecasts the future of his country and leaves us out of the calculation will fail woefully in his predictions. Here we are, then. What will ye do with us, ye white men of America, ye high priests of civilization?
>
> A few centuries ago the question of what should be done with a subject race, would be easily answered. The knife, the faggot and the club would make short work of them and their questions. Times and manners are milder. You have tried to answer my question by enslaving us. From 1620 to 1863 we were your slaves, bought and sold like the beasts along side of which we toiled.
>
> The fierce fires of the civil war have melted our chains, and we are free, and confront you with the old question, What will you do with us? Your humanity fordids our massacre; the most outrageous Ku Klux, or New York rioter, would recoil before the task of slaughtering five millions of men and women.
>
> The re-establishment of slavery is an impossibility. These millions of men who have learned the use of arms, who have learned to love liberty, and would be ready to use those arms, to preserve the liberty they love, they cannot be re-enslaved. Universal massacre is possible, but slavery re-established is impossible. If you suggest that we be sent out of the country, that the General Government be turned into a vast colonization society, that our idle war vessels be turned to use in transporting us to our fatherland, wherever that is, I reply that there are two insuperable difficulties in the way. One of these difficulties arises from the fact that we don't want to go, which, in my opinion, is sufficient to settle the matter. But there is another difficulty which would probably have more weight with you, and that is that you don't want us to go. You love us too well to part with us. You love the millions of dollars which our industry adds to the wealth of the country. The planter of the South wants us for laborers; the manufacturer of the North wants us for customers, and neither can spare us. Our color and features may not be pleasant to contemplate, but the greenbacks we add to the national wealth are highly pleasant to the sight and to the pocket.
>
> It is astonishing how rapidly the answers to the question narrow themselves down to one, and that is the one dictated by true patriotism. Take us by the hand, educate us, raise us to the level of citizenship, cast upon us the high responsibilities of that condition, and you will do the best thing for us and yourselves. By our vices we may be a curse to our country, by our virtues we may prove a blessing. Educate us and you double our value to the State. Educate us, and you not only enrich but strengthen the State. It was the common schools of Prussia which won the battle of Sadowa, and the confederacy went down under the influence of the common schools of the North.
>
> Men still talk of classes that are born to rule—that they must direct and the others obey. This may do in peaceful times. When the ocean is smooth one competent man, with the rawest and least experienced of crews, may manage a vessel; but when the storm beats high a trained crew is needed. Such storms sometimes assail the ship of State, and then it is important that every citizen be trained to love his country, and serve it efficiently.

An Assault on Brigham's Works.

The two sons of Smith, who have gone to Utah to preach a revival of original Mormonism, held a meeting on Sunday week in Independence Hall, which was packed to suffocation, and many stood outside. David Smith made the address, and was heard with close attention and much apparent sympathy. A letter to the Corinne Reporter says:

David Smith, whose destiny it seems to be to break up the despotic power of Brigham, and inaugurate a new order of things in Utah, is a young man of pleasing address and prepossessing appearance, about twenty-one years of age and a fluent speaker upon the subject of his religion. He claims, and probably firmly believes, that his father was a prophet and received the ministrations of angels, had visions, dreams, etc., and was the living oracle through which God spoke to his people. He bears testimony to the fact that his elder brother, Joseph, now at Plano, Illinois, is the rightful successor to his father, and that, per consequence, Brigham is an usurper, having ne right to the place he occupies, receiving no revelation and leading those under him into ways of darkness, ignorance and error. He denounces the doctrines of polygamy and Adam-worship, and the arguments used by him to prove his propositions were forcible and pointed, and drawn from the standard Mormon works, such as the Book of Mormon and the Doctrine and Covenants as well as the Bible. He told the people that he knew their grievances and the errors they had been taught, for he had read the published sermons of Brigham and his satelites, and understood the whole subject. David Smith is undoubtedly the most formidable opponent that Brigham has yet had to deal with, for he is firmly rooted in the hearts of the great mass of the Mormon people. As his mother was called the Elect Lady so is he claimed to be the Expected one, the Deliverer, the Prince David, spoken of by Isaiah, who should deliver his people from the bondage in which they are oppressed.

One of the missionaries recently returned from a trip south, having baptised several hundred at Provo and the country around. There is no doubt that hundreds will flock to the standard of David and Alexander Smith, and that a fearful schism will be created in the Brighamite church, more powerful to break up that iniquitous system than an army of soldiers, and infinitely more preferable, since the object may be accomplished without bloodshed.

A farmer saw an advertised receipt to prevent wells and cisterns from freezing. He sent his money and received his answer. "Take in your well or cistern on cold nights, and keep it on the fire."

The Battle-Fields of Georgia.

A correspondent of the Boston Traveller writes from Georgia: All along the railroad from Ringgold to Atlanta, black ruins, old chimneys, broken bridges and dilapidated fences astonish the eye of the traveler. Ruin! ruin! ruin! Some few of the refugees that left their homes in flames have returned to build another habitation; but "the last state of that man is worse than the first." The old log houses which many occupied with their leaky roofs and mud plastered walls were bad enough, but they were palaces beside many shanties which now temporarily occupy their places. In the towns, too, everything which can be used as a shelter is appropriated, and many a white family has taken up their abode in the hut of one of their old slaves, close beside the ghastly walls of their former mansion. In several places a little corner in the roofless wall of once proud mansions has been partitioned off with slabs, and logs, and made to answer practical purposes of a dwelling. Crops of grain in some places cover the plains in their waving beauty; but the fences, negro quarters barns, and stables are gone. It is true that the work of rebuilding the houses, barns and fences has begun, and before many years the effects of the war will be covered by the trophies of the new civil enterprises. But to-day the sad reminders of war are abundant.

In many places the rifle pits and forts remain entire, lacking only the guns to revive the scenes of '64. Blockhouses partially destroyed, can be seen along the route, marking the spots where the garrisons were stationed who defended Sherman's communication with Chattanooga. At R[illegible] we visited an old lady, whom we remembered to have seen during the campaign. The first time we saw her the Union force had made a charge on the rebels, and several of the retreating confederates were killed in her garden; and when we reached her house in search of something good to eat, these dead bodies lay about the garden, while several wounded rebels lay in the street near her front door.

"No, sir, yer can't hev no wittles here; I'm a poor ole creetur," said she, "an yer Yankees has made me work enough for one day."

"It was rather bad work for you—killing so many rebels right here at your back door," said an officer.

"Oh, I don't care nuthin 'bout that," said she; "they ain't my men, no how. But oh, lor, lor, just look 'o here. You'uns beat we 'uns, and running arter we 'uns broke my fence thar, and tipped over my ole ash hopper here, and I'd just like ter know how an ole woman like me is ter git tew dollars tew [illegible] it with. You shan't hev a drop of vittels till yer pay me fur ther damige ter my hopper, so, thar."

On [illegible] to the house, however, we found that during our absence in the garden a dozen soldiers had "gone through it," and the disconsolate owner of the shattered ash hopper had nothing to give us, if she would.

Five years [illegible] since, but almost the first reference she [illegible] to the war during our recent visit, she [illegible] a tear and spoke of the terrible time when "you'uns tipped over my ash hopper."

Silver plates and val[illegible] are found in Resaca now nearly every day, in places where the owners hid them in time of the battle, and never lived to tell where they put them. Or if they lived, the houses were burned, the private marks removed, or their memory failed to answer the demand made upon it. A nice gold watch, melted into a blackened lump, lay kicking about the streets of Resaca for several weeks before its value was discovered.

SHODDY IN GLASS.—There is "shoddy" in glass as well as in woolen fabrics. Consumers of kerosene are oftentimes almost discouraged at the frequent breakage of lamp chimneys, without any apparent cause. Cheapness being the order of the day, many manufacturers make chimneys from a silicate of lime instead of a silicate of lead, simply because such glass is very much cheaper than the genuine article. Moreover, it is much more liable to [illegible] thus adding both to the profit and the business of the manufacturer. The initiated can readily tell the different kinds of glass either by ringing or weighing it. The vibrations of the lead glass have a clear, ringing, bell-like sound, possessing the requisite strength and elasticity to withstand expansion and contraction, as well as the [illegible] of use. [illegible] of such glass will outlast half a dozen of the silicate of lime or lime glass chimneys. A few cents extra invested in a lead-glass chimney is money well spent, to say nothing of the saving in wear and tear of temper. It may injure the "trade" in the "shoddy" estimation, as it should do.

Lime-glass costs, in the pot, only about three cents per pound, while good lead glass [illegible] about ten cents. There are about four chimneys to the pound, so that the margin for gain in "shoddy" is quite large. Glass for chimneys should contain from thirty to thirty-five per cent. of lead; the best cut glass contains about fifty per cent. An excess of lead is employed in glass which is to be "cut," so that it may yield more readily to the cutting wheel.

There is a new glass now being introduced into the market which does not contain any lead; but which is about midway in value and wearing qualities between lime and lead glass. The improvement is in the mixing. It was first discovered by a Pennsylvania glass-maker, who kept his secret as long as he could; but the prying eyes of the chemist have finally detected it, and the "new glass" is now made at most of the manufactories in the Atlantic States.

ENDORSEMENTS.

OLYMPIA, W. T., March 27, 1869.

C. A. WHITE, Esq.—Dear Sir: Having examined your original map, showing that portion of Washington Territory west of the Cascade Range, I desire to add my testimony to its value. Having been engaged for a number of years in the surveys from Cape Flattery to the Head of Puget Sound, I have examined this portion of your map more critically than others, and I take pleasure in vouching for its general correctness.

This map will fill a want that has long been felt, not only among the residents of this Territory but others, who are desirous of obtaining information of this portion of the "Far West," and I trust that we shall soon see it in a form suitable for general distribution.

JAS. S. LAWSON,
Asst. U. S. C. S.

We endorse the annexed opinion of Jas. S. Lawson, Esq. and will add that Mr. Chas. A. White is a practical surveyor, and has had access to the township maps in the two Land Offices in this Territory, as also the Coast Survey charts; and we can vouch for his map of Washington Territory, west of the Cascade Range of Mountains, as being correct, and the only good map of the same territory that has been made.

Libby Prison—A Reminiscence.

[From the Trenton State Gazette.]

Col. Henry W. Sawyer, who has lately been appointed superintendent of the life-saving apparatus on the New Jersey coast, once passed through a very perilous adventure. He was among the Federal prisoners in Libby Prison at the time when the Confederate government determined to retaliate in kind the execution of two rebel officers by one of our western generals. Mr. Sawyer was at that time a captain in the 1st New Jersey Cavalry, and was at the grade of officers from whom selections were to be made for the victims to confederate vengeance. The officer who was in charge of the prisoners at that time, was a kind-hearted and agreeable man, and was regarded by them with feelings of gratitude and affection. On the morning in question this officer entered the room where the prisoners were confined, and told all the officers to walk out into another room. This order was obeyed with particular alacrity, as the prisoners were daily expecting to be exchanged, and it was supposed that the order had arrived, and that they were about to exchange their prison quarters for home and freedom. After they had all gathered in the room, their countenances lighted up with this agreeable hope, the officer came in among them, and with a very grave face took a paper out of his pocket and told them that he had a very melancholy duty to perform, the purport of which would be better understood by the reading of the order he held in his hand, which he had just received from the War Department. He then proceeded to read to the amazed and horrified group an order for the immediate execution of two of their number, in retaliation for the hanging of two confederate officers. As the reader ceased, the men looked at each other with blanched faces, and a silence like death prevailed for some minutes in the room. The confederate officer then suggested that perhaps the better way would be to place a number of slips of paper equal to the whole number of officers from whom the victims were to be selected, in a box with the word "death" written on two of them, and the rest blank—the two who drew the fatal slips to be the doomed men. This plan was adopted, and a chaplain was appointed to prepare the slips. The drawing then commenced, the men advancing and taking out a slip, and, if it proved to be a blank, taking their places in another part of the room. The drawing had proceeded for some time, and fully a third of the officers had exchanged gloomy looks of apprehension for a relieved aspect they could not avoid showing, after escape from such terrible peril, before a fatal death slip had been drawn. At the end of about this period, however, the first slip was drawn, and the name of "Captain Henry W. Sawyer of the First New Jersey Cavalry," was called out as the unfortunate victim. The captain was, of course, deeply agitated, but did not lose his self-possession. He immediately began revolving in his mind some plan for averting, or at least postponing the immediate carrying out of the sanguinary edict of the rebel government, and by the time he was joined by his companion in misfortune, who turned out to be a Captain Flynn of an Indiana regiment, he had resolved upon his co[illegible]. The officer in [illegible] as soon as the drawing was completed, ordered the two men to be taken out and immediately executed. Capt. Sawyer, however, demanded, as a request that no civilized nation could refuse under such circumstances, that he should have permission to write to his wife, to inform her of the terrible fate that awaited him, and to have her to come on and bid him an eternal farewell. Respite for a day or two was thus obtained. Sawyer subsequently obtained an interview with the Secretary of War, and [illegible] write to his wife, which [illegible] writing to her was [illegible] to be m[illegible] it in w[illegible] and to secure h[illegible] the [illegible]. It turned out [illegible] Sawyer [illegible] directed. Our [illegible] was informed of the condition [illegible] promptly [illegible] a son of General [illegible] of [illegible] prominent [illegible] to hang them if the Union [illegible]. By this means the lives of the two doomed men were saved, as the confederate government did not dare to carry out their threat. After a few months [illegible] Captain Sawyer was exchanged [illegible] Capt. Flynn, his companion in misfortune, came out of the ordeal with his hair as white as snow, turned gray by the mental sufferings he endured. Capt. Sawyer served through the war.

THE SOLUTION OF THE PROBLEM—WHAT IS IT?

Joseph Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, [illegible] ran through, at least [illegible] to [illegible] as follows: [illegible]

"Still there must be some solution of the problem. Polygamy cannot be tolerated or [illegible] in any part of the Union. The public opinion of the Union and of the civilized world are against it. The [illegible] and religious sentiment of mankind condemn it. The social [illegible], which really gave it existence will shortly cease to be. In the prolific young generation which is growing up the sexes are equally divided, and to furnish each man with one will absorb all the available females. If one man of [illegible] under the pretext of revelation, to monopolize a score of the likeliest damsels, he will find twenty wifeless men who have received special revelations that each man must be provided with a wife before the greedy fellows grab more girls than their equal share. This movement will soon begin, as the first of the new crop are coming to puberty, and are already sparking the young damsels, as well as some of Young's damsels. The prophet enjoins upon his people to marry young as well as to marry old Young, and a good many of the young Mormons begin to think that the patriarch has [illegible] enough already, and more than he can properly love, cherish and comfort. Mormonism is making no proselytes from the American people, which shows the profound aversion in which the system is held by the entire people. Its recruits are raked from the lowest class of English and Scandinavian life, whose material condition is unquestionably greatly improved by the transition. But it is observed that the number of male recruits now almost equal the females. Once the adults of the two sexes approximate in number, the practice of polygamy will begin to dwindle. Another cause may be traced to better education of the rising generation, who are thrown in contact with the literature, ideas [illegible] of the great world without, and no young man who can read and think is wholly impervious to public opinion. He can go nowhere beyond the limits of the Mormon settlements and avow his respect for bigamy or polygamy or incestuous intercourse. The conclusion I have come to, is, that Mormonism, as [illegible] by Smith, will outlive polygamy as revealed by his successor, Young, and that neither will long survive the introduction of education, literature, fashion and refinement, as it is a system that flourishes only on a soil of ignorance and superstition. It is nearly time for a new revelation modifying and abolishing the practice of polygamy, for unless there is a timely revelation of the kind the whole thing will come to grief and confusion. That which has no foundation in good morals and social economy is built on the sands, and must sooner or later be undermined and tumble into ruins.

A MISCONCEPTION.—"Knox," the correspondent of the Sunday School Times, tells the following incident, which occurred in a Sunday school in Brandenburg, Germany. A speaker, dwelling upon Adam and Eve, asked:

"Where did God place them?"

The answer was:

"In the Garden of Eden."

"And what did they do there?"

"They tilled it."

"Why were they turned out?"

After a significant silence, a little fellow cried out:

"Sir, they could not pay the rent."

The novelty of the answer induced the teacher to inquire of his pupil why he had given it, when he was told that his father and mother had been turned out of their house because they could not pay the rent, and he thought it must have been so with Adam and Eve.

The teacher made up a purse for the boy's father

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought to public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIF[illegible] and even EIGHTEEN YEARS standing in H[illegible] Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from [illegible] absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, ted and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid state thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let guardians, friends, attend to those who are [illegible] any of these horrible life-destroying maladies [illegible] they are cared for and cured before it be too late; [illegible] them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician [illegible] made private disease his especial study for years, [illegible] is certain to cure the most inveterate [illegible] cury or any injurious drugs. It is [illegible] who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the [illegible] tended doctors who infest all cities, publishing [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing [illegible] public by using the names of eminent physicians [illegible] Europe and other places. Be therefore careful [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands [illegible] charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-[illegible] solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is [illegible] by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited [illegible] producing, with unerring certainty, the follo[illegible] of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by [illegible] ical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark [illegible] the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the [illegible] the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, c[illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence [illegible] [illegible] thing strange, a dislike to form new a[illegible] a disposition to shun society, loss of [illegible] flushes; pimples and various eruptions about [illegible] furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, [illegible] [illegible] monomania and frequent insanity. If [illegible] not obtained, should apply immediately, [illegible] or by letter, and have a cure effected by his [illegible] scientific mode of treating this disease, which [illegible] effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will [illegible] Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove [illegible] rily to him that he was cured of this complaint by [illegible] of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are [illegible] under any of these fearful maladies, should not [illegible] [illegible] ability resting upon them nor [illegible] obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give [illegible] patient a written instrument, binding himself to [illegible] radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT [illegible] by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating [illegible] toms, length of time the disease has continued, [illegible] medicines promptly forwarded, free from [illegible] curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and [illegible] directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a [illegible] letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and [illegible] who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the [illegible] Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and be[illegible] lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, [illegible] waiters, [illegible] intelligence office k[illegible] etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and [illegible] will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you find their former occupations in it. Look at the [illegible] tory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid [illegible] tion is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing [illegible] may save you many regrets; for, as advertising [illegible] cians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there [illegible] safety in trusting any of them until you know [illegible] what they are. PETALUMA, CALIFORNIA, Dec. 1[illegible]

For about twenty years I had used Tobacco in [illegible] rious forms, and for the past eight years had [illegible] inveterate smoker. Becoming satisfied that the [illegible] sive use of this narcotic was seriously impairing [illegible] health, I determined if possible to check my [illegible] habit. Hearing of Orton's Preparation for [illegible] the appetite for Tobacco, I sent to Portland, [illegible] box of the medicine, which I received through [illegible] on the 17th of November. A month has not [illegible] yet the medicine has effectually relieved me from [illegible] yearning or desire to use Tobacco in any form. [illegible] Preparation is not more difficult or unpl[illegible] than to commence chewing gum. I conscientiously [illegible] lieve the Preparation will have the promised and [illegible] effect in every instance where it is given a [illegible] Upon that belief and from an honest desire to [illegible] who wish to break away from the slavish [illegible] Tobacco I offer this testimonial.
SAMUEL CASSIDY.

Beware of Counterfeits and all articles [illegible] ing to be like this, of the same name or other[illegible] great popularity of Orton's Preparation has [illegible] unprincipled persons to attempt palming upon the [illegible] counterfeit and inferior articles. Purchasers will [illegible] order directly from the Proprietor or his duly au[illegible] Agents

The price of Orton's Preparation is $2 per box, or [illegible] boxes for $5, sent by mail to any part of the [illegible] securely sealed from observation, with [illegible] receipt of price.

How to send money by mail.—Enclose the amount in a letter, seal carefully, register the letter and take a receipt for it of your Postmaster. Money sent by mail above directed at my risk. Address

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.—A man named George Newman employed upon the ice-house in course of erection by Mr. Phillip Hornung, a mile or so below the city, was accidentally killed yesterday morning. He was assisting to raise a bent of the building, when one of the strips of plank used instead of pikes slipped, allowing one end of the bent to fall. In its descent it was so twisted that the plate was broken off and one part of the timber fell upon the head of Mr. Newman, fracturing his skull and causing almost instant death. Two or three of the men who were lifting at the bent, narrowly escaped being also crushed. Dr Shumacher was called at once but the unfortunate man was dead long before the medical gentleman arrived. Dr. Poppleton, Coroner, being informed of the accident, caused the body to be brought up to the undertaking house of Messrs Ewry & Brelsfoard, where an inquest was held, by the Coroner and the following jurymen: Oscar Kilbourn, Foreman; Chas. Barrett, Levi Knott, J. McCoy, P. D. W. Hardenburg, and John Ewry. The following is a copy of their verdict:

"STATE OF OREGON, COUNTY OF MULTNOMAH, }
PORTLAND, August 16, 1869

"We the undersigned jurors being duly sworn according to law, do find the deceased man was named George Newman, a native of Prussia—that said deceased came to his death by fracture of the bones of the skull, caused by being struck on the head by a falling beam whilst in the act of raising an ice house for Phillip Hornung. We do further find that deceased was recently from Sacramento City."

The d[illegible] had been in this city about a month, and has been at work at the ice-house since last Thursday. The [illegible] found upon his person do not indicate that he had any family.

S[illegible] The river is four inches lower than last year, and the [illegible] is something more than four inches [illegible] a part of yesterday it was difficult to see more than a few blocks, and one could hardly distinguish [illegible] at the distance of two or three h[illegible]. We heard of one case where a [illegible] asked a total stranger to take a drink, supposing he was addressing his friend Bill Jones. He had been "looking through a glass, darkly." There was another case where the dense smoke gave a ludicrous termination to an intended business transaction. Mr. F., who is generally wide awake and always sharp after a trade, was bantering a gentleman from Salem to sell some splendidly located lots at East Portland, and prop[illegible] to go over and see them. Salem didn't want to go over the river, and didn't want the lots. F[illegible], knowing the utility of "showing the goods" where the customer does not bite fiercely, proposed to walk right out to the rear of the building on to the wharf, from which place he could point out the lots without going across the river. Salem agreed. Out [illegible] the two together, F. all the time descanting upon the eligibility of the lots, his attention altogether fixed upon [illegible], to see the effect produced—"splendid lots—right on the line of the railroad—bound to double in value in two years—good business location—there, you can see them right over behind that—hallo!—well, really! [illegible] what a smoke!" Laughter by Salem customer [illegible] in the face of F. but amazement and—[illegible]. And so ended this real estate transaction, as lost this item, in smoke.

IN DANGER OF BEING RUN OVER.—The "weak brother" who runs the Eugene Guard, says: "It strikes us that if he [illegible] would take a cathartic that would work off a little of the Railroad and Immigration which sets so heavy on him, it would be a good thing. De[illegible] papers, [illegible] and [illegible] tained by De[illegible], must fight the battles of the Democracy in the front ranks. Railroads are all [illegible], but we would rather live in a D[illegible] State [illegible] a line of railroad, than in a Mongrel State [illegible] with iron overflowing with immigrants." [illegible] man is probably one of the [illegible] rock follows the vote every year for Gen. Jackson. There is poor [illegible] for such as he, in the outlook, as regards railroads and [illegible]. They are both [illegible] with a high head of steam on. But where shall the man of the [illegible] flee to [illegible] them? Mountains and d[illegible] are [illegible] he go to the North or [illegible], to the East or the West, a snorting [illegible] would be at his heels. He'd better go to China, where [illegible] are not so fast. He might there run more [illegible] than the Johns would care to build railroads.

FROM ASTORIA.—The Commercial says: "Mr. Mont[illegible], whom it will be recollected was attacked with the small-pox some [illegible] ago, is now reported to be convalescent. His wife who it was at first thought had contracted the contagion escaped with a slight attack of the [illegible], so light that she was not confined to her bed at [illegible]. A little son of Mr. M. is reported to be very sick [illegible] disorder."

The [illegible] of Sunday has a different account of matters [illegible]. It is probably, however, exaggerated. [illegible] "A lady who lives at Astoria, writes to her [illegible] here, that there is four or five new cases of small-pox [illegible]. Mr. Monte[illegible] is better, but his wife and [illegible] are quite sick; the boy was taken sick away from home, and many were exposed."

[illegible] of East Portland, who lives near the suburbs of that burg, informs us that on Sunday [illegible] were walking out just in the edge of the [illegible], less than a quarter of a mile from the [illegible], within about two hundred feet of six black [illegible] old ones and four young ones, which were [illegible] in the underbrush. The gentlemen having no arms politely retired. We asked our [illegible] why he did not get a gun and go hunting. [illegible] "I'm not much of a shot, and [illegible], I [illegible], if they will let me alone, I'll let them alone."

[illegible] FOR CHINESE.—A school for Chinese has been [illegible] at the [illegible] of the Young Men's Christian Association in this city. The [illegible] are held [illegible]. Last Sunday ten Chinamen appeared [illegible]. We are informed that one of them [illegible] able to spell and pronounce words of [illegible]. All of them [illegible] marked quickness. [illegible] of them were able at the close of the [illegible] one hour, to point out any letter of the alphabet. [illegible] The [illegible] were most agreeably [illegible] and encouraged, by the [illegible] of this first effort.

[illegible]—The steamer [illegible] of yesterday from up the river, [illegible] of [illegible], very many [illegible] were [illegible] Major Berry, W. A. McPherson and others.

Mr. I. R. [illegible], of Salem, arrived overland Sunday [illegible] is still in town.

[illegible] J. W. Johnson, of the Courier, and Frank Stuart, of the Polk County Times, are in town.

[illegible] The following officers of [illegible] Lodge, No. 2, I. O. G. T., of Corvallis, were installed last Friday [illegible] last: T. R. Cauthorn, W. C. T.; Annie Fuller, [illegible]; J. D. Johnson, W. S.; S. W. Leamon, W. T.; [illegible], W. G. S.; W. F. Raburn, W. M.; G. B. [illegible], W. I. G.; C. H. Jones, W. O. G.; Jennie Mill[illegible], W. R. H. S.; W. H. Johnson, W. L. H. S.; Mary [illegible], W. A. S.; M[illegible] Butterfield, W. D. M.; Dr. W. [illegible], W. C.; M. H. Bell, P. W. C. T.

[illegible] ITEM.—The frisky young man from Wisconsin [illegible] all along shore, who does the friskiness for the [illegible] Press, gets off in the last issue of that paper, the [illegible], gay and frisky "[illegible]" "Tony," whilom [illegible] in the Herald gave us a call. We are sorry to learn that he lost his situation on account of his baldness; it being the [illegible] of the present editor to appoint none but "young men" on his staff. A frisky young fellow from Pike [illegible] "Toney."

[illegible]—A gentleman of this city, whose name is not given, has [illegible] to play a game of billiards for a wager of one hundred dollars or upwards, or for the [illegible] of the State, with any person of this city or State; will play any game, French or American, on a [illegible] table. It strikes us the challenge ought not to wait long for a taker.

Grant's Nepotism.

[From the Rochester (N. Y.) Chronicle.]

The Democratic howl about Grant's nepotism is reduced at last to a piteous whine because of eight positions under the Government, which are distributed as follows:

Jesse R. Grant (father), Postmaster, Covington.

A. H. Sharpe (brother-in-law), Marshal District of Columbia.

Frederick T. Dent (brother-in-law), Brigadier General and doorkeeper.

Casey (brother-in-law), Collector, New Orleans.

Frederick Grant (son), cadet, West Point.

Silas N. Hudson (cousin), Minister to Guatemala.

Judge Dent (brother-in-law), Administration candidate for Governor of Mississippi.

Cramer (brother-in-law), recently Consul to Leipsic.

And this statement comes from the New York World, the leading organ of the Democracy in the country. Let us see what the thing amounts to. Jesse R. Grant was postmaster of Covington before Ulysses S. Grant became President. Fred. T. Dent was advanced to his present military rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the line on the 31st of December, 1867, and of Brigadier General by brevet on the 13th of March, 1865, both before Ulysses S. Grant was made President. Fred. Grant was appointed a cadet at West Point two or three years ago, while Andrew Johnson was President. Judge Dent is only a candidate for an elective office, and, as yet, the Administration has shown no disposition to favor his pretensions. And, finally, Mr. Cramer, "recently Consul to Leipsic," was appointed either by President Lincoln or President Johnson, we do not now remember which.

This leaves three cases of "nepotism" for the Democracy to grumble about, and in one case only—that of Hudson—is the appointee a blood relative of the President. The office of Marshal of the District of Columbia is always given to an intimate personal friend of the Executive, and as Dr Sharpe undoubtedly fills the bill in that respect, and is both worthy and capable, there is no reason why the office he holds should not be given to him. So, in reality, the favoritism to relations of which the President has been accused, displays itself in the appointment of one brother-in-law to a collectorship, and one cousin to an insignificant South American mission. There are few men who would not have done more for their relations than this.

THE BRITISH ARMY.—The following is from a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune:

No doubt there is an improvement in the condition of British army, as compared with past years, but it is still made up, to a great extent, of the lowest class. Several officers, high in command, have lately been examined before a Royal Commission, and a Government "blue book," out this week, tells us what they said. Lieutenant-General Lord W. Paulet, Adjutant General of the forces, says some of the smartest soldiers are drunkards, and that, generally speaking, if you have anything where danger is concerned, they are active and daring. "I have always seen," added His Lordship, "that when they have been called out at fires, the drunkard is the fellow you will see in the most dangerous part of the flames. I do not dislike a scamp myself, if you have power to keep him in order. He is generally a smart soldier, but he requires a certain degree of tight handling." This is the true old English military creed—"I do not dislike a scamp myself"—and a pretty penny it has cost the English people. Drunkenness, it seems, varies in regiments and in localities. When soldiers are in Edinburgh, for instance, they are constantly in a terribly drunken state. But it is the curse of the army everywhere.

The British soldier is too often extremely illiterate. Capt. Hale told the commission: "On a court-martial on which I sat at Aldershot, a prisoner was charged with making a frivolous and vexatious appeal against his commanding officer. I happened to know the circumstances of the case, and that the complaint was not frivolous and vexatious. When the prisoner was brought before the court to my utter astonishment, he pleaded 'guilty.' I knew, as I say, what the circumstances were, and was enabled to conduct a cross-examination, which elicited evidence to show that the complaint was perfectly just against the commanding officer, and the consequence was that the court, if I remember rightly, recommended the prisoner to alter the plea, or, at all events, sent in such a finding as enabled the prisoner to escape. Then we asked the man, 'Do you know the nature of this charge against you?' He said, 'Yes,' I made a complaint.' 'Yes,' we said, 'but is it a frivolous and groundless complaint.' 'Oh,' he exclaimed, 'I don't know what that means.'"

THE PRINCESS IN A BEER SALOON.—Some years since the daughter of Prince Henry, of Reus Greiz, a small German principality in the middle of Germany, became deeply attached to a young subaltern who commanded the annual contingent furnished the army of the King of Prussia. Of course, all thought of marrying him, with the consent of the Prince, was out of the question; but it was arranged that the young Lieutenant should resign his position in the army, and together they would escape to the United States. Embarking at Antwerp, they came to New York and were married there. But being young and without experience in the ways of the world, their little means were soon exhausted, and they found themselves in a strange land, friendless and in poverty.

They were afraid to communicate with any of their countrymen, lest the circumstances of their flight should become known, and themselves arrested. Unacquainted with our laws, and supposing that the authority of their petty prince was as potent here as among the grain fields of their native land, they sought obscurity and shrunk from their names and station being blazoned abroad. At last, pushed to the extreme of poverty, the husband, who was an excellent musician, obtained a situation in the orchestra at Niblo's Garden, but learning that inquiries had been made by the Prussian consul of their presence in the city, he threw up his engagement and came south; and in the summer of 1867 fell a victim to the yellow fever. His wife was now left alone, and, reduced to the extreme verge of poverty, applied for and obtained a situation in a beer saloon in this city, where she now is.

It is a strange episode in real life, but a true one, and exhibits, as no moralist could describe, the vicissitudes of fortune. She is now perhaps twenty-five years of age; small in stature, with an elegant symmetrical figure, and face decidedly pretty. Her face is shaded with light brown curls, and her manners and conversation evince one accustomed to good society. She displays a good deal of reluctance in talking to strangers, but once interested she becomes animated and engaging. She seems to feel her questionable position very sensibly, and the slightest allusion to what she was, and is now, is sufficient to provoke her to tears.—N. O. Picayune.

The best and most popular companies will then be those that promise only equity, and render all that they promise, and furnish the best security, with the most upright and judicious management."

The Political Situation in San Francisco.

In order to beat the corrupt Democratic clique which rules in San Francisco the Republicans combined with the honest portion of the Democratic party and a ticket has been presented made up of names selected without regard to politics. This movement is a wise one, and it is believed that it will succeed. Independent papers, those of Democratic as well as of Republican proclivities, bear testimony to the corruption of the scheming politicians who control the Democratic organization in the city and presume on the strength of the party to carry out any system of fraud that their personal interests may demand. The Herald (Democratic) discusses the condition of political affairs in the city with great earnestness. It speaks of the "crimes of the cabal" who have made up the regular nominations and laments that "the interests of the Democratic party should have been entrusted to such selfish and unprincipled keeping." But it warns them that "a tremendous upheaval is now in progress," and that there is a deep-seated "resolve to trample under foot the insolent attempts of self-constituted rulers to thrust down the throats of the people nominations hatched in secret and made in scorn and defiance of the right of citizens to choose their own servants." The Herald thus concludes its powerful protest against the action of the clique that controls the Democratic party:

> We have spoken of the upheaval that is in progress. Never in the history of San Francisco has there been such a ferment as is now observable. The people are more thoroughly aroused than they have been for years. There is a stern determination among them not to be imposed upon, and they are now inclined to join any movement that will give them freedom from caucus dictation. Of course, they must exercise caution, for designing men might lead them into combinations quite as objectionable as those they have determined to resist. But, from every indication that reaches us, we are convinced the spirit that is abroad among the Democracy, as well as in the ranks of the other party, is such as will practically renounce and put to shame caucus, with all its works and pomps.

The Republican [illegible] of the city strongly supports the joint movement to select trustworthy men without distinction of party. The following is from the Bulletin:

> The Republican Convention, in its honor be it said, has deferred to the feeling of the people. It has judiciously postponed action on the subject of nominations, and will probably await the action of the Independent Convention. Some of the delegates, with other influential men in the party, believed that there was a fair chance to elect a Republican party ticket; but the Convention is unwilling to put itself in opposition to an earnest movement of the people, and it is resolved to coöperate with those excellent Democrats who prefer the welfare of the city to a party victory that would be abused by a little clan of self-seekers to their own advantage at the cost of the general good. Thus the way is clear for good citizens of both parties to act together for municipal reform. [illegible] not be a nobler way of serving the community, and it is impossible that such a generous [illegible] should fail to elicit a [illegible] majority in favor of good government.

The [illegible] in San Francisco is a very [illegible] on account of the desirability of rebuking the "ring" and its atrocious [illegible] that the [illegible] in San Francisco may determine the general result in the State. A Democratic def[illegible] in San Francisco would undoubtedly [illegible] the loss of the State to that party.

San Francisco and the Oregon Trade.

It cannot be doubted that San Francisco is gradually losing her hold on the trade of Oregon. Once she commanded it absolutely. Nearly all the goods sold or consumed in Oregon were purchased there or came through that mart, paying a large profit to her business men. But now we receive direct shipments from New York, from the Islands and from China, which supply a considerable portion of our consumption; and for the rest, San Francisco, instead of controlling the trade and realizing her large profit upon it, is gradually becoming merely a forwarding point, through which our supplies are received. [illegible] we are now paying in San Francisco less, proportionately, than formerly, and that city [illegible] the loss of a considerable share of a trade which she once exclusively enjoyed.

This partial change in the course of trade has been [illegible] to Oregon. In [illegible] of goods the merchants of Portland are now able to offer as favorable inducements to the buyer as can be had in San Francisco. Our interior merchants cannot now in general make it pay to pass by Portland and go to San Francisco to make their purchases. This fact is gradually developing itself to the satisfaction of those engaged in business in our State, and it is a fact of much importance to Oregon. It indicates a healthy, independent and substantial growth, and gives great hope for the future. Undoubtedly the business of Oregon will continue to approach nearer and nearer to an independent basis as time progresses, and it is of the first consequence to all classes of our people that this movement should be assisted and fostered in every practicable way.

The New Cable.

The assurance given by the agent of the French Cable Company in this country in reply to the letter of the Secretary of State regarding the landing of the cable on our territory was to this effect: The company agreed to accept as the basis upon which its operations were to be conducted the provisions of Mr. Sumner's bill to regulate the subject, which has already passed the Senate, or of such other enactment as Congress at its next session might pass in relation to it. The company also engaged to use its influence to induce the French Government to so far modify the concession under which the company has been established as to permit the landing upon French soil of any authorized American cable; and further agreed not to oppose the establishment of any such cable on its own part.

It was on the strength of these assurances, as appears by the correspondence just published, that the Secretary of State informed the agent that "no opposition would be made on the part of the Government of the United States to the landing and working of the cable, before the meeting of Congress."

Facing About.

The Yreka Journal observes that since Senator Casserly complimented the Chinese and endeavored to take it back by crediting them with superior qualities, the Democracy on this coast have become completely demoralized upon this subject. Their utter inability to see through the cloud of dust which they have raised on the "Chinese question" is well evinced by the following resolution recently adopted by the Alameda county (Cal.) Democratic Convention:

> Resolved, That the efforts being made by the Republicans in opposition to the introduction of coolies into the Southern States, whilst they foster their importation into California, is but another evidence of their favoring whatever is to the interest of the negro, and their own opposition to every measure favorable to the white laborers of the country.

In this resolution it is actually assumed that the introduction of Chinese in the South would be "favorable to the white laborers of the country," and a Republican Administration is arraigned by a Democratic Convention for not allowing the Southern people to import coolies at pleasure! We commend this case to the attentive consideration of the Democratic press of Oregon.

In General.

The strike of the men employed in plate printing by the National Bank Note Company at New York is exciting wide attention. The men refused to work on a new class of work except at prices formerly paid for what they had been doing, and the company refused to pay at that rate. It appears that the case has been presented to the Secretary of the Treasury for solution.

At the recent Philological Convention at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., one of the principal topics of discussion was the aboriginal languages of America and the best means to preserve them from destruction and oblivion. Several interesting papers were read on the subject. The languages of both North and South America were examined, and an effort was made to trace resemblances between them. The subject is to be resumed.

Beriah scolds the small-souled Democrats of Marion county for not giving him better support. "My brethering," said a hardshell preacher; "I have been dispensin' the gospel nigh onto forty year, and I never got a cent yet for my preachin'" "No," ejaculated a slightly inebriated disciple sitting at the foot of the altar,—"biggodd it ain't worth a cent!" We fear it is on this principle that the Marion county Democracy refuse to support Beriah's paper.

The San Francisco Monitor, an Irish Democratic paper, says. "It has only been a few months since the importance of the Chinese question first dawned upon the people of the East, but the attention excited about the time of the opening of the railroad has led to a pretty thorough discussion, and now it is almost impossible to take up a newspaper published on the other side of the Rocky mountains which does not contain some reference to the long-queued Mongolian, who, in the national mind, is fast usurping the place of the 'everlasting negro.'" The Democracy of the Pacific States, by their demagogical appeals against the Chinese, have been the main instruments in starting this discussion.

The Sacramento Bee of the 9th inst. reports that the Central Pacific Company has not yet been able to get the Eastern companies down to their minimum offer of fifty dollars, legal tenders, for second class fares from New York to San Francisco. They are, however, working at them with a will and hope to bring them to it yet—but the lowest figures the Eastern companies have named is seventy dollars. Not being inclined to wait on the slow motions of these Eastern people, the Central Pacific and Union Pacific roads have themselves made a second class rate so as to help inaugurate the system, and will now sell second class tickets from Omaha to Sacramento at sixty dollars, currency.

Beriah is in ecstasies about the elections in Virginia and Tennessee. He sees in the result in those States an indication of the utter overthrow of the Republican party everywhere. He is "amused" to witness the "affected indifference of the Radicals" on the subject and gives an editorial under the old stereotyped head of "Not much of a Shower." We [illegible] reproduce articles by the yard, written in the same vein and with the same caption, from the old files of the Herald which Beriah wrote in 1867, when he was predicting the certain triumph of his party in the ensuing Presidential election and deriding the pretensions of the "Radicals" who were of opinion that the Democratic successes of that year were trivial and portended nothing.

Improved Steam Engine.

In scarcely any department of mechanics have there been so many and so varied improvements as in the steam-engine. A marine engine of to-day, for instance, will not burn half so much coal as one built ten or even seven years ago. Thus the Cunard steamer Scotia has forty furnaces to the Russia's twenty-five. Yet the Russia makes faster time on about half the consumption of fuel. By the use of super heaters, surface condensers and other improvements, the steam-engine is thus being gradually brought up to the point of the greatest amount of power per ton of coal consumed, which is the point of perfection. Among the latest improvements in the steam engine is one by a Frenchman named Russet, of Jersey City, which is thus described in the journals of that place:

> This machine, with one quarter of the weight, and one-quarter of the space required for an ordinary ten horse engine will give the same power with twenty-five per cent. less fuel. The engine sets at defiance all preconceived notions about the means of applying steam as a motor. Its motive power is all contained within the circumference of a broad, stout wheel, about three feet in diameter, revolving upon a hollow shaft which receives the steam and delivers it alternately into two opposite reciprocal cylinders, and fixed between the center and periphery. The power, therefore, instead of being at the center, presents the singular anomaly of being at the circumference. Or, in other words, the true center of power is at the periphery of the wheel. To use a familiar simile, the wheel is like the band or drum of a squirrel cage, in which two squirrels were consentaneously, one in the usual position, the other in the opposite, but with head down, and with a motion similar to that of a fly walking on the ceiling—both, of course, in continually reversing positions as the wheel turns. It is application of the simple principle by which, as any one can see, a grindstone may easily be turned by placing the hand upon the surface, while only with considerable muscular exertion a man's hand grasping the shaft can produce the same motion. The inventor of this steam engine claims that it will give ten-horse power with no more fuel than is required in a caloric engine of two-horse power, while it occupies but one-fourth the space, and can be built at a much less cost. If such a statement as this is anywhere near the truth, the invention is simply a revolution in the application of steam to motive purposes.

TRAIN AT CHICO.—In his Chico speech, as reported in the Northern Enterprise, Train said:

> "Since Senator Casserly has made his double somersault on the Chinese question [laughter] there is great hopes for California, provided the Fenian boys have the sense to spike England's Tammany Hall gun by defeating the Democracy at the coming election. [Applause and some dissent.] Why should my Irish boys always be servants? Why not make the Chinese your servants as the Americans have made the Irish theirs? [Sensation.] After the experience of a quarter of a century ago in burning churches, destroying convents, and riding priests upon a rail, clubbing Irishmen in the streets and insulting emigrants on landing, will the Irish organize another Know Nothing party in order to furnish fanatics with clubs to beat out their own brains? [Sensation.] Fenians! follow my lead! Down with the English Democracy in California, and up with Irish freedom! [Applause.] After being elected, by the anti Coolie cry, to power, who got up the grand banquet to the Chinese Embassy? The Democrats. [Sensation.] Will you be sold again? [Cries of no.] The only way the Irish can show their power and get justice and fair play, is by always voting down the dominant party, until they are strong enough to win for themselves. [Loud applause.] And the way to do that is to get out of their heads that when they die they will go to General Jackson."

Miss Dickinson says she has been charged with "being a man hater, but whether she is or not, depends entirely on the man." There are whole families of girls like Anna, in that respect.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The man who threw the first stone in the streets of Baltimore at the old Massachusetts Sixth, is living in Lafayette, Indiana, in straightened circumstances.

The Western Union Telegraph Company have 50,000 miles of wire, represented by an investment of $50,000,000.

The Charleston negroes are "feeling their oats" a little too decidedly. They tolerate no difference of opinion in colored circles, and are getting to be quite as bad in this respect as their old masters were in slavery times.

An editor of an Austrian paper has been fined five florins ($1 75) for calling Andrew Johnson "the most corrupt scoundrel in America." Either Austrian editors must be a most impecunious set of fellows, or our ex-President's character stands at an exceedingly low ebb in the dominions of the Kaiser.

It is said our Government is looking with longing eyes on Iceland. A report on the resources of Iceland and Greenland has been compiled by Benjamin Pierce Mill for the Government, with the view, it is believed, of throwing light on the subject of a proposed purchase of those dependencies from Denmark.

A new effort for "fonetik reform," as it is called, is in progress in England, and the aid of the government is invoked. The idea is to spell words as they are pronounced, which would be to disregard their etymology and abolish all clue to their significance. An effort to fix a standard of correct pronunciation would be more sensible.

Judge Abbott, a leading Massachusetts Democrat, talks sensibly about negro suffrage, which he says is now a fixed fact, and to attempt to declare "this work null and void, and begin anew, would bring upon the country greater evils than it would suffer by accepting the situation." All the Democrats are beginning to see it in this light. That's the reason they "go for" the Chinese now, and let the darkey slide.

A Hartford paper says: "Very few of our citizens understand the real magnitude and importance of the wool commission business of this city. A recent item of the purchase of wool in Ohio is not an exaggeration. One house alone has received this season more than a million and a half pounds, which is consigned to them from New York, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Texas and California. The wools, especially, from Ohio, are in an unusually good condition."

The State Central Republican Committee of Pennsylvania has determined to conduct the canvass quietly, avoiding all partisan demonstrations; that is to say, big conventions, processions and displays. It is believed that the people have had so much political excitement as to have an absolute disrelish for it, and will be quite as likely to come out and vote the Republican ticket, if nothing further is done than to thoroughly organize in every school district, and spread abroad the truth through the agency of political documents and the press.

In twelve years one of the elevators in Chicago has received and delivered over 60,000,000 bushels of grain. This elevator has been enlarged and improved latterly, until its cost and value amount to $500,000. Three different railroad tracks will run into the building, two for receiving and one for delivering each one of which will contain 18 cars at a time, inside the north and south doors—or a total of 36 cars if necessary. The elevator will contain 279 bins each 68 feet deep, with a total capacity for 1,000,000 bushels of grain, 200,000 of which can be discharged daily.

THE WEST.

Commodore Vanderbilt is in California.

There are only 420 registered voters in Yreka.

The people of Montana at the late election, refused to remove the Capital of the Territory from Virginia City.

The San Francisco Herald says the San Francisco municipal ticket in San Francisco will be "ignominiously defeated."

A magnificent gold and quartz headed cane, said to be the finest ever made in the United States, has been prepared in San Francisco, for presentation to Mr. Seward, by a committee of citizens. Thirty-seven pieces of quartz. Cost, $1,000.

Fifteen miles from Yreka there is a spring from which issues in one volume fully 2,000 inches of clear, cold water. It discharges into Shasta river. An attempt has been made to bring this water into Yreka by a ditch, but the scheme has been abandoned as impracticable.

A party of Chinese have offered to dig a ditch for bringing water from Scott river, below Callahan's Ranch, along the east side of the valley, and to Fort Jones, for $11,000. The ditch would be 35 miles long, and would be of incalculable service in an agricultural point of view.

The Helena Herald says: Notwithstanding the unprecedented famine of water which has prevailed in Montana during the present season, it is a remarkable fact, nevertheless, that the aggregate yield of gold from our placer mines this year will be as great as that of any former season.

Prof. J. D. Whitney, late of the California Geological Survey, recently of the Harvard Scientific School, which was organized under his direction, is now at Denver, Colorado, with a class of students in geology and mineralogy. He expects to return to California some time next month.

An investigation is being had in San Francisco in regard to little girls under twelve years being bound and gagged at the Tehama Street School, which is in charge of Mrs Wood and Miss Grant, and under the jurisdiction of Professor Knowlton. The evidence so far has sustained the charges.

A dispatch, dated Sacramento, August 7th, states that last week was marked by activity in movements of the grain crop. By country wagons and railroad it has been pouring in, while the upriver boats each trip came full laden. From the estimates of reliable agents and dealers, the Steam Navigation Company will bring to market at least 56,000 tons. The crop generally in all, is the heaviest ever harvested.

The Owyhee Tidal Wave of the 10th inst., says: Some three hundred emigrants from the Western Atlantic States are passing down the Valley of Snake river, some in destitute circumstances, endeavoring to reach the promised land of Oregon and Washington. Would it not be a pious notion for the Immigrant Aid Association to send out assistance in the way of transportation and supplies to enable these people to reach their destination.

Very Plain Talk.

It must be very provoking to our Democratic editors to read their Southern exchanges about these days. There is a general disposition among the Southern brethren to repudiate and denounce the Democracy of the North which is not at all like the good old times, in fact the Southern wing has evidently made up its mind to dissolve the old firm and seek new connections. Note the following from the leading Democratic paper of Savannah, Georgia:

> It is a rare thing for the Northern Democrats to make a judicious nomination. Indeed, since the South has been left out of their councils, the party appears to have lost its brains. There seems to be a fatality that drives them away from every road that can possibly lead to victory. They appear incapable of learning anything from the past. It is their blunders alone that have kept alive the Radical party, which has long since been condemned by the American people. In the late Presidential campaign, they not only brought out a ticket that was obliged to be beaten, but took special pains to secure its defeat by putting the party on the defensive in a long and silly string of irrelevant resolutions. In the States they have been guilty of equal folly. With the exception of Hoffman, in New York, and Rosecrans in Ohio, they have blundered in almost every nomination made since the war. The Pennsylvania nomination on Tuesday, affords a striking example. They could have had the services of Hancock by anything like an unanimous nomination, and his name would have put a Democratic victory beyond a peradventure, but no, they must go off in a wild goose chase after a "copperhead" nominee, a well known partisan who will keep his minority party together and the opposition quite firmly united.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—F. O'Neil has been arrested on suspicion of being the assaultant of young Fares, who was seriously stabbed Saturday night.

[illegible] was arrested by officer English, Saturday night for knocking a Chinaman down on Sacramento street. On the way to the station house the man begged for his release and promised good behavior in the future, upon which officer English let him go. Some scoundrel set fire to a pile of old lumber on North C street last night. It was discovered and extinguished in time to prevent a serious conflagration.

A few mornings ago, in the Fort Homestead Railroad Tunnel, was found by the foreman the following mysterious relics of a love affair which had been lost the night previous: a pretty curl of auburn hair, a lady's garter, and a beautiful embroidered and perfumed lady's handkerchief. (Thrilling items scarce.)

Elko Dispatch

ELKO, Aug. 16.—Col. Drew arrived from Cope on yesterday and left for San Francisco to-day. He informs us that things are looking prosperous, the rock in Argenta and California showing richer as they get down. He says he met a number of emigrants on the way down there to locate. The Idaho road is progressing rapidly, and when completed stage lines will be at once established.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH

CANYONVILLE.—The canyon south of this place is all on fire. A man's house was burned yesterday, three miles in the canyon. Trees are constantly falling, damaging the telegraph line considerably.

No Good Butter in America—The Reason Why.

We are reminded daily—yes, three times a day—of Mrs. H. B. Stowe's declaration that she never ate good butter till she went to England, and that in point of fact there was never a pound of first quality butter made in America, a statement which contains more or less truth. The fact that forty millions of the smartest people on the face of the globe have settled down, with a tolerably good grace, and with only an occasional grumble or smothered oath, to the tri-diurnal infliction of having their bread, which was poor enough before, spoiled by being plastered over with stuff only fit in many cases to grease the wheels of the car of Juggernaut—or some other demon that rides on a car—is past our comprehension, and only proves how elastic human nature is, and how wonderful its capacity of adjusting itself to circumstances. "How much the heart can bear, and yet not break." We'll wager the poet wrote that line at a boarding house table.

And this state of things continues in the face of hundreds of agricultural societies all over the land, that yearly offer premiums for good butter. Now we don't undertake to aver that there is some comparatively good butter made. We wouldn't like to say on oath that it is all "rank, and smells to heaven," for some of it has the negative virtue, at least of possessing no bad quality. But we believe with Mrs. Stowe that there never was a pound of the very first quality butter—as good as butter can be made—churned in the country, such as the sweet, fragrant, golden, waxy stores that are produced in the meadows of Devonshire. The fault may not be altogether in the dairy women, it may partly be in the stock, partly in the pasture and partly in the salt, but all is no excuse for we should have them, better stock, better pastures and better salt.

We don't propose to teach the art of butter making in one lesson—it would take many lessons and much practice before the best farmer could be sure of having good butter "every time." But we believe that a little intelligent study and observation would reduce butter making to as much a matter of absolute certainty as any other process that involves chemical action as one of its conditions. There are certain indispensible conditions necessary to good butter, without which the gods themselves could not hope to succeed.

The first is a good cow, for a bad fountain cannot yield good water—nor milk either.

The second is a good rich pasture, with constant access to water, for cows understand the relation of water to milk, as well as the milkmen, and better too, for they put it in at the proper time, and a good supply is absolutely necessary to the activity of the secretion that develops the butter.

Cleanliness is the first, second and every other requisite—clean throughout. We mean by this absolute, chemical cleanliness is essential in all the processes, from milking the cow to packing down the butter, and in all the utensils, from the milk pail to the firkin in which it is sent to market, or all care and skill will be of no avail. A microscopic particle of milk left in a crevice of a pan to sour and putrify will start the infection in the whole, injuring its quality, just as certainly as vaccine matter infects the whole system when brought in contact with the blood—like leaven, it leaves the whole lump.

A fourth consideration is that the cream should be taken off while the milk is still sweet. In this country it is the almost universal practice to allow the milk to stand in warm weather till it is sour, and even in winter till it has acquired an old taste, so as to obtain the last particle of cream. This is never the custom in England; the rising of the cream being accelerated by heating the milk. The cream and the butter from it will be more or less affected by standing in contact with milk that has in the least deteriorated. And in this connection we may mention, what is seldom regarded, that the milk-room should be in a dry, well ventilated situation, perfectly free from all odors, as of decayed fruit or vegetables, for butter absorbs odors with as much facility as a sponge does water.

In the fifth place, the churning is of more importance than might be supposed. The cream should not be put in at too high a temperature, as it will injure its color and consistence, while on the other hand, if it is at so low a temperature that the churning has to be unreasonably prolonged, the "grain" of the butter is destroyed, and it has an unpleasant, greasy appearance. If it is desired to put a fine point on it, a churn of ash or some odorless wood is perferable to pine, of which they are usually made in this country.

Sixthly, thorough working over—with wooden clappers, never with the hands—until every particle of the buttermilk is expressed, is of more importance than all the rest, for however fine the butter may be, one drop of buttermilk will send its taint through a ton of it—this is literally a chemical truth. It should be worked a second or even a third time after salting, as the salt extracts the buttermilk that the first working could not reach. The salt should be pure ground rock salt, all other kinds being weak and impure from the presence of soda, glauber and epsom salts, and other foreign elements. Some writers recommend the addition of sugar and saltpetre, but if these are used the best way is to mix them together in convenient proportions and then throw them to the dogs, as the distinctive taste of these articles counteracts the delicate flavor which is possessed by good butter, such as ours is by this time supposed to be. If the butter is to be sent to market it should be put into pine firkins, ash perhaps being the least odorous wood, but stone jars being best of all. As the keeping of butter is the great point, how would it answer for the agricultural societies to give premiums for the butter that came out the sweetest six months after cattle show day? the lots offered to remain, of course, in the custody of the society till the day of opening.

THE PRINTER.—The following from the pen of Junius Henry Brown, is true to the letter:

> "Printing ink begets cynicism, as dampness rheumatism, or foul air fever. There is no escaping it. Men in printing offices, whether they prepare or set copy, contract the disease and suffer from it more or less, as their mental system responds to or resists it. They are behind the scenes. They know that the golden goblets the public admires are only pasteboards; that the glittering jewels are only colored glass; that the crimson glory of the tableax is but a flash of red fire; that the mouthing fellow who is lavish of his dukedoms is in arrears for his morning cocktail. Life is undealized to them from the outset. It is stripped of its illusions, and fine names are but echoes of emptiness. Why expect them to admire? Why ask them to be ambitious? Why look for enthusiasm in them?
> "The printer understands how reputations are made. He knows that they are not blown forth from the trumpet of fame, but from the trump of him who seeks reputation by performing solos, and gets it thereby. He is aware that while genius starves, impudence fattens; that while wisdom hides in a garret, flippancy draws on the pave; that while inspiration pines, management flushes with health. He sees that the editorial language of the statesman and artist is in the statesman or artist's own hand; that honors are easy to the man that has the effrontery to ask, and the determination not to be denied. No marvel he believes all achievement unworthy, all success a sort of cheat, all persons of eminence those who have not yet been found out."

We have heard a good many pretty hard stories about Chicago people, but the following from the Chicago Journal of the 24th ult., is the worst yet: "Those ladies in post office block who amuse themselves by throwing water upon passers by will come to grief if they do not desist from such practices." Did you ever?
